

English 12: AP Literature and Composition
Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 1

Monday

During these first 5 weeks of the trimester we shall read several pieces of short fiction by some of the most significant authors of Western World literature.

In-class SA: Write to Explain—Using the definition of Allegory, explain how “The Birthmark” is allegorical and of what it is allegorical.

Tuesday

ESSAY Prep. —“Birthmark”

Wednesday

Prose Question

HW: Read “The Hunger Artist”

Thursday

DUE: Poetry essay

Friday

HW: Read “A Country Doctor”

English 12: AP Literature and Composition
Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 2

Monday

Discussion: “Bartleby the Scrivener”

Tuesday

Wednesday

Open Question

HW: Read “Barn Burning” or “A Rose for Emily” (We will choose at this point.)

Thursday

DUE: “Birthmark” Essay

Friday

HW: Read Cathedral

English 12: AP Literature and Composition
Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 3

Monday

HW: Read “A small Good Thing”

Tuesday

Wednesday

Poetry Question

HW: “Bartleby the Scrivener”

Thursday

Friday

I will order test prep booklets from Amazon; bring money!

HW: Essay Prep—“Bartleby”

English 12: AP Literature and Composition
Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 4

Monday

Read “How to Tell a True War Story”

Tuesday

Wednesday

Prose Question

Thursday

DUE: “Bartleby” Essay

Friday

English 12: AP Literature and Composition

Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 5

Monday

During this Week, the class will discuss Cry, the Beloved Country in the context of meaning, passages, and all the Open Questions we have examined thus far, as well as a few more.

Tuesday

We shall also review our four novels and review and practice for the test.

Wednesday

Thursday

Friday

English 12: AP Literature and Composition
Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 6

Monday

Tuesday

Wednesday

Thursday

Friday

Open Question Essay—on Cry, the Beloved Country

English 12: AP Literature and Composition

Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 7

Monday

- From this day until the test, we will be examining and talking about the essay prompts. You will also rethink and re-outline the Open Questions you have in your 8/9 journals but you will do so for novels other than the novel you used for the prompt the first time.

Tuesday

Wednesday

Thursday

Friday

English 12: AP Literature and Composition
Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 8—May 4-8

Monday

I believe at this writing that the AP test is this week ☺

Tuesday

Wednesday

Thursday

The test will be on this day, May 7th

Friday

English 12: AP Literature and Composition
Trimester: C—March 5-June 7

WEEK 9

Monday

Tuesday

Wednesday

Thursday

Friday

English 12: AP Literature and Composition
Trimester: C—March 5-June 7